Speaker Biography:

Rajiv Ramchanrda

Rajiv Ramchandra is a Staff Engineer at the New York State Pollution Prevention Institute (NYSP2I) at Rochester Institute of Technology. In this capacity he serves as a project manager handling a portfolio focused on enhancing productivity and efficiency, while reducing the environmental footprint of New York state companies. Ramchandra works closely with clients to create profiles of operations, scope environmental improvement opportunities and assist firms in implementing new technologies and processes designed to prevent pollution. In addition, he has played a key role in identifying high priority industrial sectors to focus NYSP2I's activities, and has also taken the lead to initiate greener workplace practices at the NYSP2I.

Ramchandra holds an ME in Mechanical Engineering from the University of Sussex, England and recently completed a second ME in Engineering Management from RIT focusing on Environmental Design, Life Cycle Engineering, Project Management, and Business.
