

Dietetics & Nutrition

Masters degree

Public interest in nutrition for maintaining good health throughout life has never been stronger.

Completing a degree in dietetics and nutrition is an important step to becoming a Registered Dietitian Nutritionist (RDN; also known as an RD).

RIT

Dietetics and Nutrition, MS

Rochester Institute of Technology

Registered Dietitian Nutritionists (RDN's) are credentialed food and nutrition experts.

They utilize their food and nutrition expertise to help people of all ages, cultures, and economic means make positive lifestyle changes. RDN's work with individuals, families, communities, and beyond to advance the nutritional status of Americans and people around the world.

This program meets the coursework and supervised experiential learning requirements to sit for the Registered Dietitian/Nutritionist examination.

Registered Dietitian Nutritionists work in a variety of settings:

- hospitals
- clinics
- universities
- government agencies
- research facilities
- food & pharmaceutical companies
- public health organizations
- journalism & marketing
- professional sports teams
- commercial food service
- corporate well-being

With a variety of titles, such as:

- Clinical Dietitian
- Corporate Wellness Manager
- Pediatric Dietitian
- Public Health Nutritionist
- School Nutrition Administrator
- Health Communicator
- Study Coordinator
- Sports Dietitian

Ready to learn more? Reach out today!

rit.edu/GradDieteticsNutrition

Contact Information

Program Contact
Kristie O'Connor, RD, MLA
Graduate Program Director
kloihst@rit.edu | 585-770-4686

Admissions Contact
Karen Palmer, Coordinator
Graduate & Online Recruitment
kbpges@rit.edu | 585-475-5656

RIT

College of Health Sciences and Technology
Wegmans School of Health and Nutrition