Automatic Sync
Technologies, LLC
(Booth #3)

Automatic Sync Technologies (AST) is a leading provider of automated captioning, audio synchronization, and audio search tools.

AST offers CaptionSync, an automated captioning service for Web casts, videotapes, and DVDs. The online service is available 7x24 and delivers high quality pop-on captions in just minutes, at prices only automation can deliver. No software to buy, no volume commitments – just use it when you need accurate pop-on captions in minutes.

Output can be generated for Real, QuickTime, Windows Media Player – or all three at once. In addition, AST's video search data output enables Web casts to be searchable and indexable – a powerful aid to all users without additional cost.

Current users include NASA, UC Berkeley, NC State, NTID, University of Washington, and Stanford University.
