How to search for classes using ALPHA subject codes

When RIT transitions to semesters in the fall of 2013 all numeric subject codes that have historically been used to search for courses (ex. 1016) will be changed to alpha subject codes (ex. MATH).

1. Once you log in, select the Search for Classes button.

2. Select the term that you would like to search for classes.

3. Click the select subject button.

4. Course subjects default to those that begin with the letter A. To see all of the subjects for a college/group, in one list, use the Academic Group drop down menu at the top of the page.

5. Click the select button next to the subject that you would like to search for classes within.

6. Scroll to the bottom of the page and click Search.
