What is RIT FoodShare?

Participate in an exciting movement uniting the RIT community!

1. RIT FoodShare Center
   - Initiative of Student Government, RIT Office of Sustainability, RIT Residence Life and the School of Communication
   - Locations: Residence Life Office at Riverbend (next to laundry)
   - RIT students, faculty and staff can donate non-perishables to the center
   - Any RIT student can stop by center for pick up of food
   - Easy way for RIT students to share food they aren’t using instead of throwing away!
   - Watch for notices of future drop box locations on RIT FoodShare Facebook group page
   - Watch for donation boxes with the RIT FoodShare logo!

2. Food Notifications Facebook Page
   - Often there is left over food after events across campus that simply goes to waste.
   - The RIT community can post to the RIT FoodShare Facebook group when there is free food available for students to retrieve.
   - Members of the Facebook group will receive push notifications on their phones or computers.

Please help us to share as a community and reduce waste.

Email ritfoodshare@rit.edu for more info or post questions to Facebook page.

RIT Financial Health

Wellness Team: Financial Health
Our goal is to raise awareness of the connection between financial management decisions, overall health, and student success. We promote financial literacy through a variety of learning opportunities to aid in financial skill development, assist in avoiding financial pitfalls, and foster resiliency to manage setbacks when they occur.
