ASSOCIATE+BACHELOR'S DEGREE PROGRAMS FOR DEAF AND HARD-OF-HEARING STUDENTS

Paths to Success

Three paths of study are available at RIT/NTID to match your interests and abilities and allow you to achieve your goals. If you want a fast track to career success, you may choose to pursue a career-focused associate degree. If you're interested in and qualified for a bachelor's degree program, you can pursue any of more than 90 exciting majors. If a bachelor's degree is your goal, but you aren't ready to enter directly into one of RIT's bachelor's degree programs, then an RIT Associate+Bachelor's Degree Program can be the right start for you.

Associate+Bachelor's Degree Programs

Offered through RIT's National Technical Institute for the Deaf, these programs provide a solid foundation that prepares you to earn an associate degree, and then enroll in a bachelor's degree program in one of the other colleges of RIT.

Being enrolled in an RIT Associate+ Bachelor's Degree Program can start you on the road to academic success. These programs provide truly exceptional access to high-caliber academic programs and unparalleled academic support services at a world class, private university and at a public university price. Deaf and hard-of-hearing students are some of the most successful at RIT. They graduate at rates above the national average for students in community colleges and other private four-year colleges. And over the past five years, 91% of deaf and hard-of-hearing graduates who have chosen to enter the labor market have found jobs. If you're looking for a better education and better career preparation than you'll find anywhere else, an RIT Associate+Bachelor's Degree Program can be your gateway to success.

What Our Students Say...

Business

"The Associate+Bachelor's Degree Program provided me with tutors and support services that helped me enroll and succeed in a bachelor's degree program in RIT's Saunders College of Business. My degree in Management Information Systems will help me achieve my goal of owning my own company and providing business-related services to other deaf individuals."

Fabian Wilks
Bronx, New York
Associate+Bachelor's Degree Program in

"My dream is to work in a luxury resort in an exciting exotic location such as Europe, Greece or the Caribbean. Pursuing a bachelor's degree in Hospitality and Service Management will strengthen my communication and interpersonal skills and give me a solid background in finance and management. Having a bachelor's degree in my hand will lead me to bigger opportunities and help make my dream become a reality."

Brett Pappas
Port Chester, New York
Associate+Bachelor's Degree Program in Hospitality and Service Management

"I grew up with computers, and I love using technology.
I chose the Associate+Bachelor's Degree Program because I wanted advanced study to improve my skills in programming and increase my advantages in the job market. I also want to be a role model for other deaf people to pursue a degree in the computing field."

Samuel Sandoval
Fairfax, Virginia
Associate+Bachelor's Degree Program in Applied Computer Technology

"This program allowed me the opportunity to explore all areas in the sciences such as the chemical, biological, environmental and biotechnical areas, and work in lab settings using analytical instrumentation for research. It prepared me well to transfer into and succeed in the bachelor's degree program in Biotechnology."

Kristin Kane Flanders, New Jersey Associate+Bachelor's Degree Program in Laboratory Science Technology

"I had many interests, and I wasn't sure what major I wanted to pursue. This program allowed me to explore many areas within the field of liberal arts and prepared me well to successfully enroll in the bachelor's degree program."

Lauren Aggen Algonquin, Illinois Associate+Bachelor's Degree Program in Applied Liberal Arts

"I chose to major in Computer-Aided Drafting Technology because it's challenging and because I like analyzing problems and finding solutions. I received a scholarship here that is really helping me focus on my education, and I am very motivated to do well. It's really helping me achieve the goals I have set for myself. I want to pursue the Associate+Bachelor's Degree Program to be an example for other women."

Jasmine Oregel
Santa Ana, California
Associate+Bachelor's Degree Program in Applied Mechanical Technology

The Best Value

A top quality education at a substantially reduced tuition rate

Because RIT receives special federal support for deaf and hard-of-hearing students, you pay about one-third of RIT's regular tuition. This means that you will receive a top-quality education at a substantially reduced tuition rate. And when you select an RIT Associate+Bachelor's Degree Program, you're also eligible for a scholarship for up to five years.

Here's How the Scholarship Works:

- You must be admitted into an RIT
   Associate+Bachelor's Degree Program and have a strong record of achievement.
   Scholarships are awarded based on previous course work, GPA and ACT/SAT scores.
- A separate scholarship application is not required. All students who submit their admission application before February 1 are eligible for consideration.
- While in your associate degree program, you're eligible for a minimum $2,500 scholarship per year for up to three years.

Annual Tuition Comparison

 Upon successful enrollment into your bachelor's degree program, you'll be eligible to continue receiving your original scholarship plus an additional $1,000 per year.

These scholarships are available for new students entering the Associate+Bachelor's Degree Program, but the number of scholarships available is limited, so submit your admission application early.
