

FACULTY-LED STUDY ABROAD PROGRAMS

Refunding Student Fees

If, at the completion of a faculty-led program, there is a surplus of program fee funds greater than $250 per student, all or a portion of these will be refunded to participants. If the surplus is less than $250 per student, the funds could be used to pay a portion of the faculty expenses covered by RIT Global (especially if the actual faculty costs exceeded the estimated costs) or could be re-invested in faculty-led programming. Some examples could include:

1. Invest funds in a student exhibition, showcase, event or published book, etc. to highlight students' overseas projects.
2. Re-negotiate subsidized faculty expenses from RIT Global.
3. Supporting future programs, for example, site visit or scholarship for students.
