

FACULTY-LED STUDY ABROAD PROGRAMS

Refunding Student Fees

If, at the completion of a faculty-led program, there is a surplus of program fee funds, this surplus will first be used to refund fees to students who had to drop out of the program unexpectedly due to an emergency.

Remaining surplus program fee funds will be used to reimburse RIT Global for any funds contributed to the program, such as faculty travel costs.

If additional surplus funds remain after these priorities, the funds will be evenly divided among the student participants and refunded to their eServices accounts.