

Fram Focus volume 3:5 / December 2017

In this issue:

- “Creating Critical Thinkers” by President Munson
- Co-Sponsored Event with CAST
- A Few Thoughts: Beth Carle
- From Gene Fram: “To Think Critically, You Have to be Both Analytical and Motivated” by John Timmer

From the Office of the President

Read President Munson’s article entitled “Creating Critical Thinkers” from the University News post dated November 21, 2017 HERE!

Co-Sponsored Events

The Fram Chair is proud to be a co-sponsor of the College of Applied Science and Technology’s Applied Critical Thinking & Learning Showcase. Join us for an interactive experience where you can see, touch, taste, and hear the story of CAST critical thinking featuring students from MMET, PS, and HTM! Learn more about this event HERE!

A Few Thoughts: Beth Carle

With this issue of the Fram Focus we meet Beth Carle, another of RIT's notable critical thinkers.

Beth Carle is an Associate Professor and Faculty Associate for Continuous Improvement in Mechanical, Manufacturing, and Electrical Mechanical Engineering Technology in the College of Applied Science & Technology. This month, she shares with us how she uses complex problems and “play” to teach critical thinking and design skills. Read her answers to a few critical questions HERE!

From Gene Fram

Read the Ars Technica article entitled “To Think Critically, You Have to be Both Analytical and Motivated” by John Timmer HERE!