Our Commitment To You and Your Family

We recognize that no two families' finances are exactly the same. As a result, our Financial Aid and Scholarships staff carefully reviews each family's circumstances to create a financial aid offer designed to help finance an RIT education.

Basic Steps for First-Time Applicants

1	2	3	4	5	6
Apply for admission You should start your application for admission early in your senior year. Financial aid notifications are sent after you have been offered admission to RIT.	Complete the RIT Financial Aid Application (Early Decision 1 and Early Decision 2 only).	Complete the FAFSA This should be done as soon as the FAFSA is available. Have results sent to RIT by including our federal school code, which is 002806. FAFSA Application	Watch for your FAFSA Submission Summary (FSS) You will receive your FSS when you file your FAFSA. Your FSS will be sent to the email address you list on the FAFSA. Review the FSS and make any needed corrections on your FAFSA.	Apply for state scholarships and grants Check with your state scholarship agency for application information and forms.	Research other sources of aid Use free, reputable sources of information on private scholarships. We provide links to the major sources directly from our website. Outside Scholarships

2025-2026 Scholarships and Financial Aid

Merit-Based Scholarships

- > 100% of students receive merit-based scholarship funding
- > Merit scholarships range from $10,000 - $25,000 annually for first-year students ($40,000 $100,000* over the length of the undergraduate degree)
- > No separate application is required to receive RIT's most generous merit-based scholarships. All admitted incoming students are automatically reviewed to determine which level of RIT merit-based scholarships will be offered.
- > There are additional scholarships that are either stackable, meaning they can be combined with an RIT merit-based scholarship to increase the total scholarship funding, or they may replace a merit-based scholarship that is of lower value. Some of the additional scholarships require a separate application and some have specific deadlines. See the chart for reference.

Students who meet the eligibility requirements for multiple RIT merit-based scholarships will be offered the scholarship of highest value unless otherwise indicated.

Notes

- > This information covers the most commonly offered financial aid programs available to full-time undergraduate students at RIT. Information is correct as of 11/24.
- > Many programs require satisfactory academic progress (SAP) toward degree completion to maintain eligibility (see RIT Financial Aid & Scholarships website).
- > Federal student aid programs are subject to government appropriations.
- > Filing the FAFSA by the recommended filing deadline will ensure priority consideration for all programs. Applications filed after this date will receive consideration as long as funds remain available.
- > Scholarships provided by RIT will be prorated for NTID-sponsored students to reflect lower NTID tuition rates. Please see NTID version of this publication if you are a deaf or hard-of-hearing applicant.

In addition to the aid criteria listed above, the additional merit-based scholarships shown at right have specific selection criteria and/or application procedures.

Costs

Each year we develop estimated expense budgets for undergraduates at RIT. Tuition and fees are generally consistent from student to student, but total expenses may vary depending upon such factors as room selection and meal plan choice. Student expense budgets include a yearly allowance for estimated books, transportation, and personal expenses. Financial aid offers take these estimated costs into consideration in addition to tuition and fees and housing and food, so that your aid offer more accurately reflects all costs associated with your attendance. Students from all income ranges are offered aid, and as a result, find an RIT education to be affordable.

Financial Aid

Financing Options at RIT

There are several loan programs, employment programs, and payment plans available to assist families in meeting educational costs. The programs listed below are available to students or parents without regard to financial need. Any family may participate in one or more of these programs:

1 Payment Options
The Student Financial Services Office offers a number of payment options that will allow you to schedule your payments each semester.

Payment Options

2 RIT Tuition Prepayment Plan
This plan allows you to prepay two or more years' tuition costs at the current tuition rate. Students receiving need-based financial aid are not eligible for this plan, but students who receive only merit-based scholarships may participate.

Tuition Prepayment Plan

3 Federal Direct Loan
The Federal Direct Loan program is the most widely used student loan program. It includes an "Unsubsidized" Direct Loan and, if there is a demonstrated need level, it may include a "Subsidized" Direct Loan. The Subsidized Direct Loan program allows interest to be paid by the government while the student is enrolled; The Unsubsidized Direct Loan program requires interest to be paid by the student while attending school unless the student opts to have interest capitalized (interest is added to the principal amount borrowed) so no payment is required while in school. This means that any RIT student enrolled at least half time may borrow the maximum loan amount for the current aid year. See pages 4/5 for more information.

Federal Direct Loan

4 Federal Direct PLUS Loan
Perhaps the most popular aid program used to finance the family contribution is the Federal Direct Parent Loan for Undergraduate Students (PLUS). This is a federally guaranteed loan that helps parents of dependent undergraduate students finance educational costs. A parent may borrow up to the full cost of education minus other financial aid offered. PLUS loans have a fixed interest rate set by the federal government.

Students whose parents are denied for the PLUS loan based on a review of their credit may request that an additional Federal Direct Unsubsidized Loan be processed in the student's name. Dependent students may be eligible for up to $4,000 as a first-year student or second-year, and $5,000 as a third-year or fourth-year student.

Plus Loan

5 Alternative Educational Loans
Alternative Educational Loans are private (non-federal) loans offered through banks and financial institutions to supplement financial aid offers. We encourage students and families to use alternative loans as an option after first pursuing all federal loan options (Direct and PLUS). Visit our website for more information.

Alternative Loans

6 Federal Work Study
This is a federally funded on campus work program based on financial need. Students are employed on campus and earn wages that may be used to meet educational expenses. Employment is coordinated through RIT's Student Employment Office.

Student Employment

7 RIT Student Employment
This program is similar to the Federal Work-Study Program but does not take financial need into consideration. Employment is also coordinated through RIT's Student Employment Office.

faq

FAQ

We want to help you understand the ins and outs of financing your college education at RIT. Here are some questions we frequently receive from prospective students and parents:

We've been told we probably will not qualify for aid. Should we bother to apply?

Yes, you should! Many factors are taken into consideration in determining a family's financial need, and each family's circumstances are unique. You won't know what you'll qualify for without completing the aid application process. There is no arbitrary cutoff for determining a family's eligibility for financial aid. The income range of those eligible for some amount of assistance is wide.

When should I apply for aid?

Early Decision students should first file the RIT Financial Aid Application immediately after applying for Admission. All student applicants should file the FAFSA as soon as it is available to them. Our recommended filing deadline dates are established so we can notify you of your aid eligibility as soon as possible after you have been admitted. Don't wait until you have received your admission notification to complete the FAFSA.

Does RIT offer academic merit-based scholarships?

Yes. At RIT, most merit-based scholarships for new students are offered through the admission process. Merit-based scholarships are based on a student's academic achievement, leadership potential, service, and other factors. Financial need is not taken into consideration when determining merit. See pages 4/5.

Will I be eligible for the same amount of financial aid each year?

In most cases, the answer is yes. Students receiving merit-based scholarships do not need to reapply to renew those scholarships. Merit-based scholarships are automatically renewed at the same level as long as the renewal requirements are met.

Students must reapply for need-based financial aid each year. Assuming you file the application forms by the recommended deadline and demonstrate a similar level of need, you can expect approximately the same level of institutional gift aid each year.

However, a significant rise or drop in family income is an example of a circumstance that might cause a change in a need-based financial aid offer.

If my parents are divorced or separated, which parent should provide the information required to apply for aid?

You should answer the questions using information about the parent who provides the most financial support to the student in the previous 12 months. Support would include money, gifts, loans, housing, food, clothes, medical care, child support, etc. Any step-parent information must also be provided if the parent who provides the most financial support to the student has remarried. We realize these situations can be sensitive and complicated. Please feel free to discuss your individual circumstances with one of our counselors. All information will remain confidential.

What is an SAI?

SAI stands for Student Aid Index. It is calculated by the federal government based on the information you provide on the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA). The SAI is the same at all colleges you send your FAFSA to and is used to determine a student's eligibility for federal financial aid programs. After you file your FAFSA, you will receive information on your FAFSA Submission Summary (FSS) that will inform you of your calculated SAI. Review your FSS to ensure all FAFSA entries are accurate.

Are all families expected to contribute toward educational expenses?

If the student fits the definition of a dependent student, the SAI on the FAFSA will be calculated using information from both the student and their contributors (biological parent, adoptive parent, step-parent) based on their respective incomes and assets. The calculated SAI for students who fit the definition of an independent student, will be based on the student's income and assets, as well as on those of the student's spouse, if married. The amount a student or family would potentially need to contribute toward educational expenses is the difference between the cost of attendance and the financial aid offered.

What happens if our financial need changes after I enter college?

While many families' financial needs remain constant while a student is attending college, some families will experience significant changes in their ability to contribute to their children's education. Sometimes these changes can even occur during the middle of an academic year. We are always willing to review financial aid appeals from families experiencing difficulties due to significant changes in their circumstances. Contact the Office of Financial Aid & Scholarships for additional information (585-475-2186 / ritaid@rit.edu).

I was notified that I will receive a scholarship from my high school. Will this scholarship affect my financial aid?

We encourage students to apply for scholarships offered by private organizations. In many cases, no alteration to a student's financial aid offer is necessary. If we are required to amend the financial aid offer as a result of receiving an "outside scholarship," we will make every effort to reduce the student's loan and/or Federal Work-Study offer before reducing any RIT grants. Merit-based scholarships usually are not impacted. You can find links to many sources of free and reputable information concerning outside scholarships on our website.

Tax Benefits and Other Help with College Expenses

There are some significant tax benefits for families of college students.

The American Opportunity Tax Credit can be claimed for tuition and certain fees you pay for higher education. It is a tax credit of up to $2,500 of the cost of qualified tuition and related expenses paid during the taxable year.

The Lifetime Learning Tax Credit is available for all types of postsecondary education. This credit provides up to $2,000 per tax return. The Tuition and Fees Tax Deduction can reduce your taxable income by as much as $4,000 and may benefit you if you are not eligible for any of the tax credits.

irs.gov

The state of New York has created the New York 529 College Savings Plan, which provides New York residents annual tax-exempt contributions to the plan of up to $5,000 per contributor.

RIT is one of more than 270 members of the Private College 529 Plan, the only national prepaid tuition plan for independent colleges. Prepaid tuition plans allow families to lock in future tuition at current prices.

If you have invested in a 529 plan, you will need to contact your account administrator for details on disbursements. Payments or authorizations to bill can be mailed to Student Financial Services at the following address:
