

Institutional Effectiveness Assessment Guidelines for Managers and Directors

Institutional Effectiveness

Institutional effectiveness is the systematic and ongoing process of planning, making informed decisions, and allocating resources by collecting, assessing, and acting on data to determine how well the institution is achieving its mission and purposes.

The overarching institutional effectiveness question is: “How well are we achieving our mission and goals?” The assessment of institutional effectiveness essentially involves a documented comparison of institutional performance to institutional purpose.

RIT’s institutional effectiveness processes and practices are designed to:

- Demonstrate use of administrative unit assessment results to inform and guide continuous improvement (enhancing operations, planning, guiding decision making, allocating resources, etc.)
- Provide evidence of systematic processes (meaningful and sustainable) for continuous quality improvement
- Demonstrate how administrative units support RIT’s mission and Strategic Framework 2035, Transforming Lives Through Creativity and Innovation

Guidance for Managers and Directors

Follow these guidelines and practices to ensure meaningful, manageable, and sustainable institutional effectiveness.

The administrative unit:

- ☐ members understand the context for institutional effectiveness work
- ☐ members are aware of their unit goals, and the IE Map is accessible
- ☐ has a designated person(s) leading the IE Map implementation, and members know if they are responsible for some aspect of the plan (data collection, updating the IE Map, etc.)
- ☐ has a consistent and formalized assessment process and timeline
- ☐ develops or uses appropriate assessment methods and tools that provide evidence to support goals
- ☐ has a structured, formal, annual time to engage all unit members to review annual assessment results, share data, and discuss recommendations for improvements as appropriate (including any changes to the unit’s IE Map)
- ☐ has a designated process to complete RIT’s Annual Institutional Effectiveness Progress Report.
