Fire Is FAST!

In less than a minute a small fire can be out of control. In a matter of just a couple of minutes thick black smoke, heat, and flame can make a room, a corridor, or a house completely un-survivable. The smoke reduces visibility to near zero. The heat reaches temperatures of hundreds of degrees. There is no time to do anything but escape. Even worse, most fires occur when people are asleep. If you wake up, time has already been lost leaving even less for escape.

Surviving a fire requires you to follow a few “Nevers”

♦ Never ignore a fire alarm. Escape every time. This one may be the real thing and that sound and your quick action may save your life.

♦ Never tamper with fire alarms or detectors. The early notification they provide may literally mean the difference between your life and death.

♦ Never waste time looking for anything you want to take with you. You have no time to do anything but escape.

♦ Never go back in. After you have escaped stay out. There is nothing inside worth dying for.

When a fire occurs, time is the biggest enemy. Every second counts!

Ask yourself:

Can I beat it to the door?
