Personalize Your College Experience

Turn Daydreams Into Reality

Successful students craft a college experience that aligns with their passions and goals. What does your vision for your entire college experience include? Study abroad? Doing an internship or co-op? Developing leadership skills? Summer sessions? Planning ahead can turn a “wish list” experience into an amazing reality.

3 Ways to ROAR this Week:

- Own your Journey and Plan Proactively. “A goal without a plan is just a wish,” so this week carve out time for proactive investigation of the experiences you want to pursue during your time in college. Get the details on application processes, deadlines, how it fits with your academic plan, and resources to help fund your experience such as the College of Liberal Arts Go Grant.
- Unleash your Curious Mind. COLA majors are flexible, which means you’ll likely have space within your academic plan to explore subjects outside of your primary major requirements. Through your elective selections, declaring a minor, or adding a double major, expand your learning beyond your core program requirements.
- Seek out On-the-Job Experiences. Whether it’s an on-campus job, a summer job at home, volunteer opportunity, or community service, look for ways to align your job experiences to the career fields that interest you. Of course, a co-op or internship is likely in your future, but for now as you head into summer and think about your next academic year, check out job opportunities and organizations that serve your community.

COLA funds, grants, and scholarships for help with experiential learning.
