Center for Public Safety Initiatives

Introduction

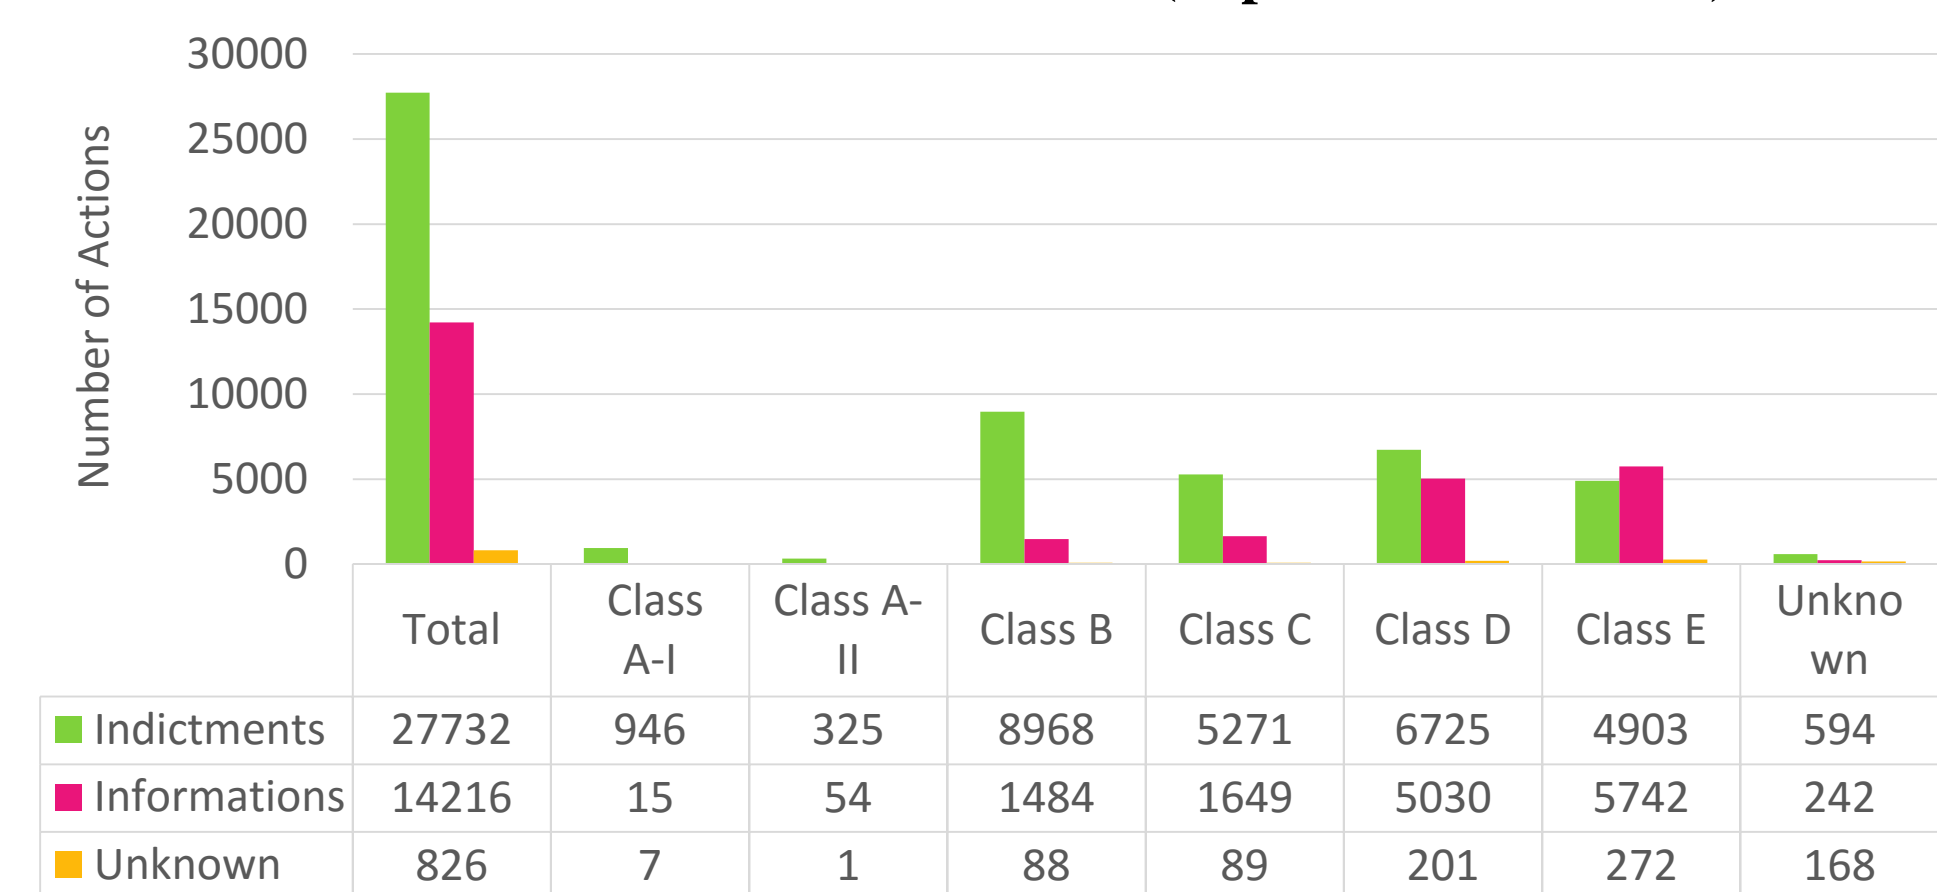

This project provides a compilation of criminal justice related statistics pertinent to Monroe County in a manner that is easily communicable to the public at large. The information will yield a more concrete understanding of Monroe County's current criminal justice situation. The project focuses on the areas of arrests, criminal offenses, sentences, and dispositions for adults and juveniles in Monroe County as well as data concerning the Rochester Police Department and the Monroe County Jail inmate population. The intent is to use this information more extensively in future papers that focus on each area of information covered by this project.

Objectives

- Compile a source of data and information that will provide a basic understanding of Monroe County's current criminal justice situation.
- Present this material in a manner that is easily understandable to the public, conveys significance of information and underlying aspects that may not at first be apparent.
- This project does not intend to extensively analyze data, merely to present information for a general understanding of Monroe County's current standing in relation to criminal justice.
- In the future this information will be divided into categories of different data aspects, and developed into various papers with more in-depth analysis.
