STAFF PHOTOS/KRIS DREESSEN

Above, members of the Wushu Team of martial artists of Tianjin University of Technology in China demonstrate ancient fighting techniques at Rochester Institute of Technology Saturday night. Below, a capoeira student evades a kick by lifting himself onto one hand during a demonstration of capoeira at RIT during the martial arts demonstration. Capoeira originated in Angola and Brazil among slaves as a means of revolution and incorporates dancing and music, meant to mask the martial art's effectiveness. The capoeiristas are students of Master Kim Murray, who also teaches at RIT.
