

Unsolicited Comments by Students 3 Months after the Course

Student #1: "I'm also very interested in your fresh teaching method, I'm going to try it in my class in next term."

Student #2: "ASL has been regarded as a mature language in America, but there are a few studies on CSL in China, I think it needs time for more people to really understand the idea of equality, and I believe that CSL must be admitted in China in some day just as the same as ASL."

Student #3: "Thanks a lot for your efficient and interesting course. I'd learned so much from it, not only the knowledge about ASL, but also the methods of teaching sign language."

Student #4: "You taught me not only ASL, but also the active attitude of life, thank you! The song you taught us is still clearly in my ear, and your lively classes are kept deeply in my mind. Those days are wealth to me."

Student #5: "I practice ASL myself these months, but find it hard to use without grammar. And I'd like to tell you an interesting thing. A deaf friend of mine wants to learn English, so I tried teaching him from the very beginning. We use Shanghai Sign Language, Chinese Sign Language and writing together to get through our class."
