The award for outstanding undergraduate scholarship was established to recognize excellence in academic achievement by undergraduate students. Those selected to receive the award are designated RIT Scholars and the achievement is recognized through an especially designed award emblematic of high academic attainment.

The Outstanding Undergraduate Committee has central responsibility for:

a) Developing a process to solicit candidates from each department (school) and from individual members of the faculty of the college; b) confirming eligibility of potential awardees through the Registrar's Office; c) inviting a member from outside the college to the committee membership; d) determining criteria of selection in addition to the minimum Institute requirements specified in the policy statement; and e) submitting to Lin Hoke, NTID President Office, a list of students to receive the award. Lin will submit it to Susan Provenzano, RIT Academic Affairs.
