Learning and Study Process
Academic Success Center

Creating study aids that organize and consolidate the course information in a format that suits your learning process and style.

Ask Questions
Seek clarity on areas you are unsure about with professors, classmates, and other resources.

Create Visuals
Create charts, tables, or pictures to organize information and review.

Map It
Draw a visual representation of the information.

Organize Materials
Make concept sheets. Sort by formulas, vocabulary, concepts, and examples.

Outline It
Make a master outline.

Summarize
Write a chapter summary and compare it to the text summary.

Make Connections
Consider how the information relates to you; develop real-world examples.

Practice
Do example problems and compare your solutions to the example’s steps and results.

Make Questions
Turn headings and objectives into questions, write questions on flashcards to quiz yourself.

Teach
Explain topics and concepts to study groups, partners or someone not familiar with the topic.

Learn Vocabulary
Make a 3-column vocabulary list with examples or diagrams; create flashcards with definitions and examples.

Memorize It
Make lists and flashcards for information that needs to be memorized.
