Learning Kit: Teamwork & Collaboration

We all work in a team in our positions and RIT is one big team of people as well. Whether we are working within our own department or division or collaborating with other areas, we are in constant interaction with other groups of people. How do we make the most out of those experiences with others? Teamwork and collaboration are amongst the top five skills that employers seek when hiring and promoting employees. Furthermore, learning to work in and on a team is an essential skill for all of us.
