

Is Managing for Me?

Overview

Description:

This self-guided program is designed to assist you in considering a career in management and leadership. Like all career decisions, many factors are at play. Some of the factors to consider include your own interests, motivation and life circumstances. It's also important to have a clear picture of the roles and responsibilities as well as a more specific understanding of what it's like to manage others at RIT.

Audience:

Individuals interested in exploring a management/leadership career.

Overview:

This program is designed to support self-discovery. Whether you make a decision now or in the future, the lessons provided are an opportunity to learn about leading others as you learn more about yourself in the process. The program includes the following lessons:

- Lesson 1: Manager Roles and Responsibilities
- Lesson 2: The Modern Leader
- Lesson 3: Personal Career Exploration
- Lesson 4: Perspectives: Leading at RIT
- Lesson 5: Reflections

Materials:

Is Managing for Me – Self-Guided Lessons