

Dr. Alexander Stanevsky is the Director of Center for the Deaf and Dean at Bauman Moscow State Technical University (BMSTU). Dr. Stanevsky holds the rank of Professor at BMSTU and has taught courses in Physics. He worked as a Mechanical Engineer in Senior Numerical Research Programs at a famous Russian Industrial Corporation for 7 years prior to joining the BMSTU faculty in 1971. He received his engineering degree in Mechanical Engineering from Moscow Aviation Institute, a M.S. degree in Physics from Moscow State University, and a Ph.D. in Warming Physics from BMSTU. Dr. Stanevsky served as expert in biomedicines and biophysics research and devices. He is married to Marina and they have two daughters, one who is deaf, and they are the proud grandparents of four.