

James J. DeCaro is the director of the Postsecondary Education Network - International (PEN-International)--a multinational collaborative network of colleges and universities serving deaf students that is funded by grants from The Nippon Foundation of Japan. Prior to holding this post he served as dean of the National Technical Institute for the Deaf at Rochester Institute of Technology for 14 academic years; two of those years as interim director and CEO. He holds B.S. and M.S. degrees in civil engineering and a Ph.D. in instructional technology. He has been a Rotary International Scholar in England and a Fulbright Senior Scholar in Sweden. He holds an honorary professorship at Tianjin University of Technology (China) and an honorary doctoral degree from Bauman Moscow State Technical University (Russia).