

Mark J. Rosica is an assistant professor/counselor in Student and Academic Services at NTID/RIT, as well as owner and president of Adolescent and Family Resources, Inc., a private practice counseling center in Rochester, NY. Additional responsibilities at NTID/RIT include the administration and coordination of NTID's Summer Vestibule Program and its career planning seminar curriculum for the Office of First Year Studies. He is also an institute mediator for the Center for Student Conduct and Conflict Management and adjunct faculty for the Information and Computing Studies Department. He has completed advanced studies in educational leadership and administration at the University of Rochester and has also completed the post-graduate training program in Marriage and Family Therapy at the University Medical Center.