

My name is Jason P. Anderson, and I am a student at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee. I am currently majoring in Sociology, and hope to focus on either psychology, or journalism as an outlet for sociology. I have been deaf my whole life in my left ear, and recently lost the remaining hearing in my right as well. I have taken this opportunity to learn as much as I can about a diverse culture that I never started to understand until recently, which includes my continuing education in American Sign Language. I find deafness, as a culture and a language, to be very complex, very diverse, and very beautiful. Outside of University, I enjoy attending various deaf events and happenings in the community. I also have a great love for travel and it is as much a hobby, as a way of life, and a humbling experience. I also enjoy learning about different cultures, writing poetry, and reading many good books.
