

Machiko Takagi works for the World Federation of the Deaf, Regional Secretariat in Asia/Pacific and the Japanese Federation of the Deaf. She handles international correspondence and translations. She has also been accompanying the executive members of these organizations to overseas international conferences over the past 8 years to interpret between spoken English and Japanese Sign Language. She has about 20 years experience in business translations. Machiko has an undergraduate degree in English Literature from the University of the Sacred Heart in Tokyo.