

Dr. Masayuki Sato is a professor in the Research and Support Centre for Higher Education for the Hearing and Visually Impaired at National University Corporation Tsukuba University of Technology in Japan. His specialty area is deaf education and educational audiology. Particularly, his research topics are working with deaf infant and his/her family, the working with siblings with deaf children, and audiological guidance for deaf and hard of hearing students.

He received his Master of Arts in Education from University of Tsukuba, and Ph.D. in Education from the same institution. In 1991, he started the career as a research associate in Tsukuba College of Technology. In 1995, he moved in the National Institute of Special Education, and in 2005 he came back to Tsukuba University of Technology (former Tsukuba College of Technology).