

John A. Hay, FRSA is Senior Lecturer of Deaf Studies & BSL/English Interpreting at the University of Wolverhampton, England since September 1998. Noted for his passion for Deaf History, John is currently Chair of the British Deaf History Society and ex-President of Deaf History International (DHI). John presents papers on several aspects of deaf issues, mostly on Deaf History, at conferences at local, regional, national and international level for some 30 years. In 2005, John was elected as the Fellow of the Royal Society of Arts. In November 2006, John completed his Winston Churchill Travelling Fellowship study tour on deaf museums and archival centres in Europe, the USA and Canada.