

Self-introduction

My name is Zhang Jingsheng, and I was born in June 1985, in Liaoning province. Now I am studying at the Special Education College of Beijing Union University. My major is computer science and technology.

To some extent, for me, the Ivory tower, which has a magic to attract me. Now being here, Special Education College of Beijing Union University, I can feel this atmosphere and its power. Whenever I went to the classroom or library, I can see people reading or studying there carefully, and I was influenced by them. Gradually books have been a part of my life. Whenever quietly reading books, enjoying them, I know that I am in progress. In particular, sometimes I do not know something or I am not sure, and then I will find a lot of books to solve the problem. Therefore, the book is my teacher.

My life is enriched. In my spare time, I will invite language enthusiasts to gather and learn from each other. Whenever someone asked me, I was pleased to tell him. I hope I would be able to do some help for the 2008 Paralympics Games in Beijing. When I saw some people making sign language skillfully, I was really very happy.

At the same time, I have a lot of friends. We exchange by sign language, or by cell phone text message. Whenever I am in trouble time, they will help me. I am very touched for we are all united. My hearing is fairly pretty good, so I have confidence to help my friends and to make more friends. Most of importance, I have to learn more and much harder.

To my social experience, I had the representative of Beijing United University Business School to join a sign language activity. Moreover I participated in some volunteer activities in sign language. In the future, I hope I will have more opportunities to broaden horizons, make friends, and much progress.
